Alive & Well™ capsules have been formulated to nourish the adrenal glands. The adrenal glands produce important hormones that enable the body to enter into the "fight or flight" mode during times of extra stress. Since stress may occur repeatedly in the fast-paced world in which we live, it is important that the adrenal glands receive nutritional support on a continual basis or they inevitably become fatigued and are unable to function to their full capacity. This usually results in symptoms such as lack of energy during the day and poor sleep quality at night.
